Responsibilities

- * To accept others - both students and teachers – and to treat them with understanding and compassion.
- * To treat others with politeness and respect and to follow College policies about bullying and ‘hands off’ play.
- * To respect the authority of teachers. If necessary, I should be able to disagree without being disagreeable but, ultimately, I must acknowledge the legitimate authority vested in College staff.
- * To exhibit willingness to learn self-control and self-discipline. In carrying out my rights, I have the responsibility not to deny the rights of others and I would expect to be corrected if I do so.
- * To cooperate with teachers and other students to make sure that lessons proceed productively and that I keep up to date with required work.
- * To behave so as not to interfere with other students’ right to learn.
- * To be punctual, to attend classes regularly, be organised and to participate as fully as my talent allows in all areas of College life.
- * To care for the school environment – both classrooms and outside areas. To keep clean and be prepared to remove litter.
- * To obey both the criminal law and College regulations in relation to alcohol, drugs, and motor vehicles.
- * To behave and wear my uniform correctly to show the community I have pride in the College.
- * To contribute positively to decisions about me, my class, my year, or the whole College.
- * To accept that teachers may more readily see dangers than I do, and I have the responsibility to obey their instructions. I have the responsibility to tell teachers about defective buildings or fittings.
- * To make the College safe by cooperating in all procedures and by not threatening or hurting anybody in anyway.
- * To never steal, damage, deface, or destroy the property of others.
